Glenn Capelli

in my experience, is the world's best interactive presenter. My own background is as a television presenter and talkshow host, pioneering audience-participation television, but Glenn's "involvement" prowess has shown how to take such skills to a new level. His presentations combine the world's best information technology with the best of interactive, brain-based learning. His sense of humour and timing is fantastic. His skills work for any type of international presentation: keynote, conference opener, seminar workshop leader or corporate trainer. He also shows a unique ability to work across a wide variety of cultures.
